X Banner - Small & Large

These units uses a frame in the shape of an "X", held together at a hub in the middle (back) of the display. The "X" design gives you a tension rod at each corner of the display. The graphic has a grommet (reinforced hole) in each corner which fits over the tension rod. This type of display has several advantages. Firstly, the graphic itself is completely separate from the display hardware, so you can more easily change graphics. Secondly, you can use a wide variety of medias for your graphic because it will be stretched taut from the corners by the tension bars. Media must be compatible with grommets. Finally, you can vary the size of your display by simply changing the shape of the "X".
